The Illinois Legislature is still wrestling with its apportionment bill.

The Democrats have not yet solved the riddle how to rid of Riddleberger.

The only key to the situation by which dian affairs and interviewed him the dead lock can be opened seems to be the calling of an extra session.

A general conference of temperance workers is called to meet at the capito at Madison on the evening of the 3d of June

A book of only twelve leaves was sold in New York last week for $512. It was Rickuls "Compendio," printed in the City of Mexico, 1544.

Secretary Windom has hit upon a plan | partment ever had. that he is confident will solve the financial puzzle. If it works successfully it will do away with one of the claims for calling an extra session of Congress.

Senator David Davis has climbed on to the top board of the fence again, and looking down on both parties, says neither are free agents, but are controlled by monopolies. He cries from a reorganization of parties so as to give him a cha nce.

The socialists of Chicago having encouraged the employes of the street railway to strike, in consequence of which no cars were run for two days, now want "the best Mayor" to collect from the company the legal penalties for the two days failure to run.

The president of the south side railway company in Chicago, learning that the drivers and conductors were dissatisfied with their wages has asked them to appoint a committee of conference. It is evident that the expense of the west side company, and common sense is to be somewhat of a guide in the treatment of these new agitators for more wages.

Manufacturers of cigarettes are endeavoring to secure a reduction in the tax. The production last year was double that of 1879, and as there is heard little grumbling among the consumers who really pay the tax, there seems to be no great hardship which needs remedying. With sales doubled and customers well pleased, there seems little ground for manufacturers to find fault.

Conkling in his Cooper institute speech said of Garfield, "Without early advantages, he years ago achieved prominence among the leading men in public life, and that prominence he has maintained ever since in all the collisions between individuals and parties." Not satisfied with making this assertion, Lord Roscoe seems determined to prove the truth of it, even though he be the victim.

A clerical error has been discovered in the advertisements of the interior department asking for proposals to furnish beef to the Indians. The advertisements have been withdrawn, because by awarding contracts under them there would be to the government of $50,000 in favor of the contractors. Tom Nichol's health failed just in time, and the responsibility is charged to the finance clerk, Bender.

The New York Episcopal Conference in session yesterday, after listening to figures showing that in New England the proportion of divorces was one to eleven marriages, quickly and enthusiastically passed resolutions, recognizing no ground for divorce except a violation of the seventh commandment, and pledgmg each other to refuse to marry or admit to membership to the church any who are divorced on unscriptural

An Indiana editor who has little to do, and who does not really enjoy doing that little, got very tired of writing "a. m." and "p. m," and hit upon the devise of beginning the day at midnight and numbering the hours consecutively up to twenty-four. By this system three o'clock in the afternoon would be known as fifteen o'clock, five o'clock p. m. as seventeen o'clock, etc. The general passenger agent of one of the eastern lines has taken up the idea, and is experimenting with it. He has issued a new time table to find out what the public think of it. It will prove convenient to railroad men in one respect. They won't have to answer so often the query, why a train often starts or leaves a place at 11:59 or 12:01 instead of just 12 o'clock. As it is now about every other passenger on such a train is not satisfied until conductor or their signals of distress. brakeman tells the old answer that if it was to arrive or leave at just 12 o'clock, passengers would be in doubt as to whether the time-table meant noon or

A great many reports have gone out from Washington to the effect that Thomas M. Nichol resigned the position of Indian Commissioner, to which he was appointed by President Hayes, because he was not competent to fill that important office. The statement is made by Mr. Nichol's friends that he was compelled to resign on account of ill-health, pelled to resign on account of ill-health, and that under no circumstances was he makers it was officially announced that connected with the office. On Sunday a reporter for the Milwaukee Republican called on Senator Angus Cameron, who is a member of the committee on Inon the subject. He says Mr. Nichol did not desire the appointment in the whether his health would permit him to discharge the duties of the office. But the appointment was made, and under the burdensome cares of the office Mr. Nichol has broken down. Mr. Cameron thinks he would make an excellent com, missioner of Indian affairs and if his health had permitted would have made one of the best commissioners that de-

THE DEAD-LOCK.

Washington, April 11.—While there is no outward sign of a break in the deadlock the solution of the situation is confidently looked for in certain quarters worthy of consideration. An intimate friend of Secretary Blaine's said to-day that he could announce with considerable certainty that the end would come within this week. Senator Morrill also to-day made the same prediction, which is considered by some as significant, in view of the return of Senator Edmunds. The latter has come back from the South and is understood to be pressing the need of an extra session of Congress. The is no more reason to anticipate such a thing, however, than before, because the action of the Secretary of the Treas-ury, if successful, is regarded as settling the financial question, which was regarded as the only object worthy of the call-

REFUNDING.

Secretary Windom's Circular Defin ing His Financial Policy.

Washington, April 11.—The Secretary of the Treasury issued his circular today, defining his financial policy for funding of the 6's coming due this sum mer. The plan is that proposed by the New York bankers, to allow an option to the holders to the 6's either to have them paid July 1, or let them run at 31/2 per cent at the pleasure the government. It is expected most of the holders will prefer to let their securities run. If they do not it will be necessary to sell 4's or 41/2's to meet the demand under the call, as there will not be enough cash in the treasury July 1 for this purpose if the holders should demand the money as a rule.

A STARVING CREW.

New York, April 11-The steamship Nebo, from Rio Janeiro arrived to-day. Her captain reports that he fell in with the bark Tiger, from Liverpool to Baltimore, seventy-seven days out, short of provisions, and supplied her. The crew er and Rufus Allen. They had taken were in the most deplorable condition. the animal out to weigh, and the rope having sustained life for several days on strips of leather soaked in lamp oil, until the oil gave out, and then on the captain's dog, after which there was nothing but canibalism and death staring them in the face. To add to their sufferings two vessels passed several days before within short distance, but paid no attention to

PESKY STRIKERS.

CINCINNATI, April 11th.-Contractors, builders, manufacturers, and others are being seriously hindered in their work by strikers. The stonemasons struck on Saturday for $3 a day, and this afternoon at a meeting of the bosses, it was agreed delay in getting men to take their places.

able to do the enormous amount of work the advance they had asked for had been pit at the Congregational church last granted, and they will all return to work at once. The carpenters have refused to accept the offer of the bosses to put their wages up to $2.25. They demand $2.50 per day, and will remain out till it is paid. About 500 of them have left their work. The freestone cutters are about to strike for $3 a day. They do not expect to bave to remain out long to get that figure. THE RED FLAG.

London, April 11-It is probable that the Nihilist Sophie Perolovsky will be spared hanging for the part she took in the assassination of the Czar. For more than fifty years past no execution of a woman has taken place in Russia. The Jewess, Jessie Helfman, will also probably escape the extreme penalty.

RELEASED BY DEATH.

Iowa City, Iowa, April 11.—The onestory lead-colored brick cottage, corner of Clinton and Burlington streets, is no longer a centre of attraction. The sad tragedy that began on the 23d day of February last at noon, ended to-day at 12:44 o'clock. Miss Hattie Deuell has hved forty-seven days and forty-five minutes without nourishment other than water. She was at her death 22 years, 4 months and II days old.

CARPENTER'S ESTATE.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 11.-At the Probate court session this afternoon Mrs. Caroline Carpenter made formal application to be named executrix of the estate left by Senator Carpenter, her husband. The matter is set for hearing the first Tuesday in May. The sworn inventory places the real estate at $12,-000, and the personal property at $49,000.

JOHN T. RAYMOND MARRIED

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.-John T Raymond, the comedian, was married at 11 o'clock this morning, in the Continental hotel, to Miss Courtney Barnes, a daughter of Rose Eytinge, the well-known actress. The Rev. Robert Collyer, the famous Unitarian clergyman of Chicago, performed the ceremony, and only a few friends were present.

ROBBED HIS FATHER.

MILWAUKEE, April 11.—Anthony Kauoa, the son of a Racine hardware merchant, robbed his father of $800, and, with an idler named Henry Merhan, indulged in a spree in the southern towns in this county. Merhan was arrested by detectives from this city, and Kaupa is in jail at Racine.

OBITUARY.

WOOSTER, O, April 11-William C. Kirkwood, a brother of Secretary Kirkwood, died at the residence of his son, S. J. Kirkwood, last night. He was 70 years of age, had been a resident of Wooster for the last ten years, and was a wagon maker by trade.

Orpha M. Hodge, of Battle Creek, Mich., writes May 16, 1878: "I upset a teakettle of boiling hot water on my hand, inflicting a very severe scald. I applied Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and take great pleasure in announcing to you that the effect was to allay pain and prevent blistering. I was cured in three days. We prize it very highly as a family medicine.' Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Sherer & Co.

MILTON.

-Thursday afternoon our citizens were startled by hearing loud cries in the vicinity of the block. An investigation developed the fact that Goodrich's vicious Jersey bull was shaking up his ownwhich held the pole attached to the ring in his nose broke. He dove at Allen and crushed him to the ground. Goodrich came to the rescue whereupon the bull attacked him, throwing him into the air and then shoving him along on the ground for some distance, until the spectators at a distance began to think that he was being fitted for a coffin. Allen having got his wind caught up a crowbar which happened to be standing near by, and beat the brute over the head until he left Goodrich and walked out into the public square, where he stood pawing and bellowing until driven into the barn with some other cattle. Goodrich's injuries were not serious, and he was able to be about next day. Allen had a rib broken and sustained other injuries which will keep him in the house for some time. The animal has always been at a meeting of the bosses, it was agreed that they would hereafter receive that price. The bosses believed the advance would be less ruinous to them than the the summer is over it will only be because he fails to get an opportunity.

REST.

His mother was a Prince's child,
His sire a crowned King;
There lacked not to his wishes wild
What the broad earth could bring;
Strong knees were supple at his word,
Swords glimmered at his will;
Brave fortune! but it wearied him—
His spirit thirsted still.

For him the glorious music rolled Of singers silent long; The Roman and the Grecian told Their wars of Right and Wrong;

For him philosophy unveiled Athenian Plato's lore; Might these not serve to stead a life? Not these! he sighed for more.

He loved—the truest, newest lip
That ever lover pressed—
The queenliest mouth of all the South
Long love for him confessed.
'Round him his children's joyousness
Pang gilvens and shrill.

Rang silvery and shrill; Thrice happy! save that happiness Lacked something—something still.

It came! the studded scepter lay,
An unregarded thing;.
Velvets and gold did bravely hold
The body of the King.
Why! strange that Love, and Lore, and

Sway
Looked ever on before,
And those pale, quiet lips of clay
Asked nothing—nothing more!

The Feathers of a Bird. Of a feather's lightness we may form some idea when we find that the largest quill of a golden eagle weighs only sixty-five grains, and that seven such quills do not weigh more than a copper penny-piece; that the feathers of a common fowl, which weighs thirty-seven ounces, weigh only three ounces; and that the entire plumage of an owl weighs only one ounce and a half. Meant as they are, some for covering and some for strength, we shall find them, on examination, to be very differently put together. The light downy part, when examined through a microscope, will be found to bear little resemblance to the flat part or blade of the quill. If it were not so a bird would scarcely be able to fly at all; for when the flat of the wing was pressed down the air would pass through it and yield no resistance. The fibers of the downy part, we see, have little connection with each other; they have short and loose side shoots, just sufficient to mat them together when pressed close to the skin; whereas the side shoots of the quill-feather hook and grapple with one another, so as to make one firm and united surface.

But others there are, much stronger and stiffer than the wing quill feathers; as those, for instance, forming the tails of the woodpecker tribe. And the reason would be evident to any person who watched a woodpecker on the stem of a tree feeding. Its food consists of grubs, usually concealed in the wood. In order to get them he must therefore re-main fixed on the bark and make a hole with his beak, a tedious, if not impracticable operation, were it not for the very stiffness of the tail feathers, which press against a tree and act like an additional limb. The tail, however, has another use applicable more or less to all birds; it is to them what a rudder is to a boat, and in many cases acts like a third wing. If we look at a hawk hovering in the air, when he remains in one spot we shall see that the tail is spread out like a fan, and it is in a constant state of quivering motion, balancing the bird, while the wings are keeping it afloat.

It is clear that if water could soak into the soft feathery covering of a bird, every shower of rain would be the death of thousands, inasmuch as it would indisable them from flying, and they must remain in a helpless state upon the ground, either to perish from hunger or become the prey to men or animals, who would catch them without trouble. But against such a possibility they are guarded by an abundant oily covering, which is constantly renewed; so that the rain, instead of sinking in, runs off without remaining an instant; and we all know that if we take up a duck or aculous power to cure diseases. A power of resisting water and become a spongy mass of moisture.

The growth of feathers in young birds in hot and favorable weather is very remarkable.

Corn Smut and Cattle.

In the fall of the year there is always frequent complaint of cattle dying after being turned into the corn field, when husking is done. Usually this fatality is attributed very erroneously to the fungus or smut so common on the stalks. One farmer will affirm that he knows this to be the cause, having seen the results so plainly, and so many times, that there is no possible room to doubt it. Another testifies with equal energy and certainty that his cattle have eaten corn smut time and time again, and that not the least injury has happened. If this fungus is a poison, it must always operate in the same way. Poisons do not work differently in different cases. Arsenic will poison one man just as quickly as another, and one animal as soon as another animal: and if corn smut can be eaten with impunity by one herd of cows, it can be eaten with impunity by all cows. That cattle do eat punity by all cows. That cattle do eat it without injury, we know, and so do many of our readers. So we conclude that it is not a poison.

The trouble in such cases is not caused The trouble in such cases is not caused by the smut but by the stalks themselves, which cause an impaction of the third stomach. The cattle are turned among the stalks, and without sufficient water, are permitted to eat their fill of the dry over ripe, indigestible fodder. The result is death and the smut gets the credit. The same result often happens from other causes. A sudden change from dry food to the stimulating fresh grass of spring, from soft to hard water or the taking of lead into the system will cause it.

So far as feeding upon corn stalks is a cause of this trouble, it may be pre-vented by not allowing the animal to feed until it is gorged and by giving it free access to plenty of water. We always followed this rule, and never had any trouble with cattle that had eaten stalks or smut. - Western Rural.

-"Wiener wurst" is a common street cry in Cincinnati, being used by venders of Vienna sausage. These men have little stands at the street corners, provided with a vessel for keeping the sausage hot by means of steam, a box for German rye bread and a jar for horseradish. For five cents they sell a steaming link of sausage, resting on a slice of bread, with horseradish sprin-kled over it. The sausage is made of three parts of beef to one of pork.

Tom Newland has an Indian who places a high estimate on his equestrian ability. There was a horse to be brought to town a few days ago and the Indian was given the job. He was told he was "bronco," but it was "esta bueno me sabe." Hitching the animal to a tree, he carefully placed the sweat-cloth on him; then the blanket, the bridle and the saddle; at each performance giving voice to a satisfied "Ah, hah," each ejaculation growing intenser, till he got into the saddle. All this time the "bronco," looked as unlike Alexander the Great's war horse, Bucephalus, as a carpenter's saw-horse. It is the habit of some people to use poor apples for cider, but a pure, sweet article can only be obtained from good, clean, sound fruit. Hair-cloth, or gunny, is better than straw for the juice to pass through, and as the cider runs from the press, let. it pass through a hair sieve into a large vessel. After it has stood a few hours, small white bubbles will be observed coming to the surface, through the pomace collected on top of the juice. Draw off the latter through a spigot two or three inches from the bottom of the vessel, into clean casks, and when bubbles appear at the bung-hole, rack it again. Three are usually required, before the juice is put into barrels, and at the last racking, about half a pint of warm sweet oil, and half a pound of glucose, are added to produce a fine article of cider. Place the cask in a cool place and let it stand until the flavor is what is desired, when the cider is put into clean barrels previously prepared in the following manner.

Take clean strips of rags and aip them in melted sulphur; burn them in the bung hole of the barrel, laying the bung loosely on the end of the rag to retain the fumes of the sulphur in the barrel. Put a pound of mustard seed (secured in a coarse muslin bag) in the barrel and add also a pound of isinglass or fine gelatine, dissolved in hot water. The cider will keep sweet a long time treated in this way. It must be kept in a cool place. A later method of keeping cider sweet, employed by professional cider makers, is by the use of calcium sulphite, or sulphite of lime and besides being more convenient it has been found to be as equally effective as the sulphur vapor and mustard. The preliminary steps in each case are the same. To each gallon of cider in the cask, add from an eighth to a quarter of an ounce of sulphite, first mixing the latter in a quart of the cider, then pouring it into the cask and thoroughly mixing by rolling the cask about. In a week's time, or less, the sulphite will have imparted its preserving qualities to the cider, when the latter may be bottled off. Sulphite (not sulphate) of lime may be obtained of druggists, and costs about forty cents a pound by the barrel. If too much is added, a sulphurous taste will be imparted to the cider .- Prairie Farmer. A young man who is willing to sit down in idleness, or devote his time to "society," and live off the earnings of his father, is justly looked upon as a useless if not a dangerous member of society. No young man of spirit or principle will consent to do such a thing. And further, every man, however wealthy, if wise, teaches his son some business by which he can earn a livelihood. The same principle should be applied to girls. Every girl should be taught to be self-supporting—should be taught that by her father. Every girl, whatever her social or pecuniary condition, is liable at some time in her life to be thrown upon her own resources and the cold charities of the world, and this emergency should be provided for. Bewhether their parents are wealthy or not. Public sentiment is greatly in fault in this matter, especially with reference to girls, and teachers can do much in correcting this sentiment. They should teach the boys and girls in school that work is honorable and that idleness is dishonorable, and that it is the duty of every girl, as well as every boy, to learn how to earn a livelihood. Making a Lawn.

THE best way to establish a dooryard or small lawn in grass, is to transfer the grass to it in sod. This, if properly done, will secure a good turf at once. In seeding down it will take years before a thick set is obtained, weeds and coarse grass in the meantime starting up and annoying, unless highly ma-nured. Even then there will not be, during that time, that fine, soft covering which a transferred sod, well selected, secures the same season if put lected, secures the same season if put down in the spring. The cost of taking up and transferring the sod is the greatest objection; yet this can be much reduced by turning the sward with the ground near by, or of a similar nature, having a level surface, and free from stones—cutting the slices a suitable width and thickness. If care is taken work can be made in this way. It in the city. Parlor, Bed Room. should, in all cases, be done as early in the season as the ground will admit, so as to get the benefit of moisture. With sod about three inches thick (which is better than thinner), well joined, and set in moist, not wet, ground, previously worked, and made mellow and enriched if needed, the lawn will be se-..11:50 A. M. | cured against the effect of the weather, unless the drouth, and particularly the heat of the sun, are severe, in which case it will suffer in common with other sod, unless there are trees to lessen the effect, which they will, except immediately around the boles. When finished, pass a weighted roller over repeatedly, and press the surface well, which is better than to pound it with a maul. This latter bruises the grass and disturbs the sod, requiring weeks to re-cover. It is hardly to be expected that an absolutely clean sod will be obtained for laying down, as the clean fields are rare, and rarer still is the clean turf of the highway. But it matters not so much, so that the sod has a close texture and a good set of grass; manuring and frequent clipping will so thicken the growth that the weeds will soon be overcome by it. A tough sod is also better to handle. In preparing the ground to receive the sod, too much care can hardly be bestowed upon it, not only to get it mellow and rich, so as to invite the roots downward and thus aid in sustaining the grass, but to make the surface smooth and, most of all, of uniform density, the depressions to be filled up with earth. Seme soils are uneven in texture, having veins of sand or clay; quicksand being the worst of all. It is difficult to establish a permanently even surface on such land; sometimes requiring removal of the objectionable material, especially the quicksand, which, if left, is pretty sure to work mischief. I have known it to cause a sinking of the ground in spring of several feet, making a gully of that depth and sometimes twenty feet in length. Sometimes it occurs in spots of various size and numbers annually or less often. Better make thorough work at once and for all time, getting not only Handsome Goblets, 27 Kinds to an evenly compact surface, but a uni- Choose from, some beauties for 50c a set. Twenand fertility and gives a chance for perfecting the work, affording also an opportunity for working in manure. Ground thus carefully prepared, requires little after that beyond clipping and rolling, passing the roller over in the spring and again in the summer to keep smooth the surface; it also thickens the grass. The manuring, if any is demanded, should always be done at the close of summer, to keep the lawn green through the fall and aid in protecting during the winter, securing also an earlier verdure in the spring.—Cor.

Some Suggestions by a Practical Farmer.

Country Gentleman.

DRAINAGE, thorough pulverization of the soil, rotation of crops, and liberal applications of fertilizers are primary elements in successful farming.

Better to winter ten head of neat cattle well, and have them in good condition in the spring, than to keep twenty half-starved, which it will require all of the next summer to put into condition. Plenty of manure must be applied to ground upon which special crops are to dispensable. The summer's scorching sun, the winter's frost, the wind, storms and drenching rains, all help to develop plant food from the soil we cultivate. Let all seeds to be used for reproduction, be carefully selected. To secure a maximum crop, make the

The pump should be carefully protected from intense cold, but if it becomes frozen, pour hot water through a lead pipe, the lower end of which sides, the ordinary duties of life require rests upon the ice, and it will soon be that boys and girls be taught to work, thawed. The turnip is valuable for winter feeding, to both sheep and cattle, and may be profitably grown for that pur-pose in most localities.

Manure either prevents our land becoming worthless, or it gives us this year as many bushels to the acre as we had half a dozen years since, or it increases the fertility of the land and gives us a larger return each year on the same area. The manure from animals fed upon rich food is most valu-

HAPPY LITTLE FOLK.

Last evening little Miss Belle Winslow celebrated her birthday by entertaining a few of her young friends at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. T Winslow. It was a Martha Washington tea party and the little folk appeared in befitting costumes, and looked as attractive and were as merry as could be wished. They had a jolly time. After partaking of the bountiful substantials and tempting delicacies prepared for them there were games, tableaux, and other feautures of entertainment which made time speed lightly, the little folk happy.
